Annual College Night Slated at Senior High

Forty-three colleges and universities will be represented at the 10th annual College Night at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday in Building A at Plano Senior High School, 2200 Independence Parkway.

Absentees Continue On Liquor

With only two days remaining, 279 absentee votes have been cast in the Oct. 8 local option election.

Absentee balloting will close at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, according to Stan Brimberry, election judge. He asks that voters bring their registration certificate to the polls to speed up the process.

Persons who will be unable to appear at the polls on election day may also vote on Monday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the County Government Center, 651 18th St.

The regular election will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8, at Bowman and Wilson Middle Schools between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Connally Wants Vote On Canal

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally says the United States should hold a national referendum to decide whether to ratify the Panama Canal treaty.

Connally Thursday said Panama will have a ratification vote. If the treaties were to fail in a vote here, then both the President and the Senate could say, "the American people have made this decision," he said.

President Carter made "a very serious mistake in the dramatic staging of the signing" of the proposed treaties, Connally said, and "in effect, attempted to preempt the prerogatives of the Senate" in ratifying the treaties.

"If it is not successful, then he has elevated the risk that the country already runs because in effect he has pitted every country against the United States," he said.

Connally said "the most graceful thing" under the circumstances would be to hold a national referendum and let the American people decide.

Connally appeared at a meeting of the National Conference of Republican State Chairmen and the Republican National Committee.

He said he would campaign next year for Republican candidates and decide in 1979 whether to run for the presidency.

Sponsored by the Senior High School Guidance Department, College Night will enable high school students and their parents to visit with the representatives of schools they may be interested in attending.

The program will be divided into three 25-minute sessions. Each representative will be assigned to a classroom in which he will meet with students and parents during the first two sessions to answer questions about his school and its entrance requirements. During the final session, students may pick up applications from or visit informally with as many representatives as possible.

Plano Senior High School counselor Johnnie Spies has urged all junior and senior students and their parents to attend College Night.

"Last year's College Night was a big success with more than 700 parents and students attending," Mrs. Spies said. "We hope that we will have an even bigger turn out this year."

Heading the list of schools to be represented are such state-supported institutions as North Texas State University, East Texas State University, Texas Tech, Texas A&M, the University of Texas at Austin, at Arlington, at San Antonio and at Dallas, Stephen F. Austin University, Texas Women's University, South west Texas State University, West Texas State University and Sam Houston State University.

Other four-year colleges in Texas to be represented are Rice, Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University, Baylor, Austin College, Trinity University, University of Dallas and Dallas Baptist College.

Also to be represented are Mary Hardin-Baylor College, Hardin-Simmons University, McMurray University, East Texas Baptist College, Incarnate Word College, Prairie View A&M, Abilene Christian College, Howard Payne University, Lamar University and Texas Lutheran College.

Representatives from Texas junior colleges will include Grayson County and Tyler. A staff member from Richland College will represent all campuses in the Dallas County Community College District.

Texas State Technical University will also be represented.

Out-of-state schools to be represented include the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State University, Our Lady of the Lake College, Yale, Stephens and Notre Dame.

Representatives from the Air Force Academy, West Point and the Naval Academy will also be present at College Night.

Community Needs PISD Bond Funds

BY TERRI ANDERSON

Everyone in Plano benefits from the excellence of the local school system. Every businessperson who operates a retail or service outlet, every landowner or developer who puts up a new house, and every resident who purchases goods or services within Plano—all these citizens have a better lifestyle thanks to the superiority of the Plano Independent School District.

In a recent in-depth survey, it was found that Plano residents listed the school system as a reason for moving to the city more than any other motivating factor. The power of the PISD to draw new residents to Plano has accounted possibly more than anything else for the tremendous growth of the city in recent years.

To ensure that the school system remains one of the best in the state and that local children continue receiving the best education possible in the most modern facilities, the PISD must have more funds for building, planning and continued additions and renovations.

On Saturday, PISD voters will go to the polls to decide the future of the system. School officials are asking that $38.5 million in bonds be approved by district residents in order that eight new schools, 11 sites, planning, renovations and additions may be provided.

We strongly urge every voter in the PISD to cast their ballots in favor of the bond issue. The growth of the district necessitates a successful election tomorrow. The new schools which will be built with the bond funds are needed to relieve possible future overcrowding in present schools and the 11 new school sites must be purchased to allow for future expansion.

Members of past and present School Boards, along with the PISD's administrative staff, have exercised the best possible judgement in the planning and locations of our current schools. We must continue to trust these knowledgeable individuals with the future of our children and community.

A vote in favor of the school bond issue tomorrow will not only be a vote for the children of Plano and for superiority in education, but will also be a vote for the entire community and citizenry as a whole.

Waiting to take a step into the past at the Oct. 8 Heritage Day Fair are Angie Amos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Amos, and Todd Shapiro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shapiro. The annual event will be held all day at Heritage House, the old Ammie Wilson home located at 1900 W. 15th St. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Heritage Day Planned

An annual conglomeration of old-fashioned exhibits and sales, the Heritage Day Fair will be held Saturday, Oct. 8, from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. at Heritage House, 1900 W. 15th St.

The turn-of-the-century farmstead which once belonged to well-known Planoite Ammie Wilson will be the site of such fair events as a rummage auction scheduled for 1 p.m. in the 100-year old pole barn on the Heritage House land.

Also planned is a used book sale to be held in the Raiden House, once the home of "Miss Ammie's" sheep foreman. Homemade craft items will be sold in the lambing barn with art and antiques available in sale booths located throughout the grounds.

Visitors to the Heritage Day Fair will be eligible for a painting donated by the Plano Art Association which will be given away by drawing at 12:30 p.m.

Among the many folkcraft demonstrations set for the day will be spinning, soap-making, horseshoeing, candlemaking and various forms of needlework. The demonstrations will be given throughout the day along with tours of the 85-year old Heritage House.

Planoites can enjoy exhibits of antique farm equipment, a cook shack and antique automobiles.

Republicans Consider White for Top Position

The State Republican Committee will decide Oct. 15 whether to appoint Collin County Judge Nathan E. White Jr. or Ray Barnhart of Houston as the State Republican chairman.

Judge White, a lifetime Plano resident, and Barnhart are seeking to replace Ray Hutchison as the state GOP party chief. Hutchison has resigned to seek higher office and is expected to announce his candidacy for governor.

The local county judge said that if elected in October he will not resign as county judge but will give up many other activities to devote full time to both the GOP and local positions. He has not yet decided whether to seek reelection as county judge in 1978.

Japanese Teen Adapts to U.S. Exchange Student Enjoys Life With Plano Family

BY JUDY MONZINGO

Except for her Oriental features and sleek black hair, Kyoko Tsukui looks like any other Plano teenager, with her blue jeans and casual shirt.

She likes American things, like swimming, too, but she isn't an ordinary Plano teen—she's here to live with the Leo Tanke family until June as an exchange student from Maebashi, Japan.

She is the youngest Japanese student participating in the program, which is the Pacific Educational and Cultural Exchange in Japan and the Japanese-American Cultural Exchange in the U.S.

The Tankes saw an article in the Star-Courier last spring concerning the program and made their application in May. They were sent photos and descriptions of six candidates to live in their home, and they selected Kyoko because she is an only child like their daughter Robin and she is near Robin's age.

There were other things about Kyoko that attracted the Tankes to her—she has a small dog like their own daughter and she likes some of the same things Robin likes.

In turn, Kyoko, daughter of a hobby shop owner, and her family looked over information on the Tankes to decide whether to come to the U.S.

She accepted, and as a result, is now a sophomore at Vines High School, where she plays volleyball, studies math, science, choir and English, including tutoring sessions with a local student arranged through the counselor's office. She had studied English in school (it's mandatory in Japan) for three years and with a private teacher before coming here.

Although she will study at Vines for the full school year, Kyoko will be required to repeat tenth grade upon her return to Japan if she decides to go to college, as she says she has. In Japan, only nine grades are mandatory for those persons who don't choose college.

If they do choose to continue their educations, entrance exams, like college entrance tests in the U.S., are required before entering tenth grade. Kyoko says she wants to continue her education and to be a television announcer. She has already taken and passed her entrance exams.

Upon arriving in the U.S. two months ago, the Tankes said Kyoko's first words, spoken incredulously, were "You have trees here!"

She's also noted that we Americans drive on the wrong side of the street (they drive on the left in Japan) and much faster than in Japan. She says our streets are not as crowded as those in Japan.

Kyoko has commented that it gets much hotter here than at her home, where it averages about 80 degrees F. in the summer months, but she has grown quite fond of swimming since coming to live with the Tankes.

She also likes attending church with them and enjoys the American lifestyle of having people visit in homes often.

The Tankes have taken her to see the state capitol in Austin and to the LBJ Library, as well as to a number of other points of interest throughout the state.

She seems to be enjoying it. Asked whether she misses her family after two months here, she replied, "Not yet!"

'Friends' Begin Series With Energy Program

The first in a series of programs sponsored by The Friends of the Plano Public Library will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the reading room of the Gladys Harrington Library, 1501 18th St.

Jim Taylor of Texas Power & Light, Wes M. Newell of Design Builders and Jack H. Brady of Brady Freeman & Lohman will discuss "Energy Conservation: What's New Under the Sun."

Energy conservation was selected as the Friends' first program because of its importance to everyone. Saving energy is of prime interest to homeowners and businessmen who are responsible for heating and cooling their buildings.

New technology in this field is changing rapidly. Even if a homeowner is not thinking in terms of solar energy, there are steps that can be taken to cut down on the use of energy in the home.

The Friends will examine the techniques presently available and take a look at the possibilities for the future. The program is open to the public.

Petite Kyoko Tsukui says Americans drive on the wrong side of the street and is amazed that there are trees here. The 15-year-old Vines High School student is living in Plano with the Leo Tanke family as part of a Japanese-American cultural exchange program. She will continue her studies at Vines for the remainder of the school year and return to Japan next June. Despite our strange driving habits and the hot weather, Kyoko likes the American lifestyle. McKee Receives Scouting Honor Jimmy Ray McKee, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Jim McKee, recently became the youngest Eagle Scout in the history of Boy Scout Troop 291.

The ceremony was held at the First Baptist Church in Plano. McKee was escorted into the Sanctuary by Eagle Scout Joe Cates following the bearer of the Eagle Honor, Eagle Scout Glenn Moore.

Mr. Jim Fineout, Minister of Music at First Baptist gave the invocation. The new Eagle Scout was introduced by Scoutmaster Dick Raitt who told of McKee's many accomplishments during the past three years.

Some of McKee's accomplishments include the Gold Scout Medal for excellence in aquatics, a certificate of appreciation from the City of Plano for helping put out a large scale grass fire, three Historical Trail Medals and the troop's Silver Scout Medal.

His services to Scouting and the community includes helping improve the grounds at the Heard Museum and providing materials and books for the inmates of the Collin County jail.

For his Eagle Service Project, young McKee planned and constructed portable risers for the church choir's use on tours.

After the introduction, Eagle Scout Mike Raitt recited the "Voice of the Eagle" ceremony followed by certification of the Eagle requirements by troop committee members Edna McClenney and Ron Dykes.

The Eagle Light ceremony was performed by Eagle Scouts Moore, Cates, Raitt and Fred Schempf.

Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Cloyd Sweany continued the program by having McKee reaffirm the Scout Oath followed by Scoutmaster Raitt's administering of the Eagle Scout Pledge.

Mr. Bill McKee, McKee's uncle presented the Eagle honor and also gave the Eagle Charge.

The Benediction was given by Don Sewell youth director at First Baptist followed by the closing ceremony.

A reception for the new Eagle Scout was held in the athletic building and was attended by McKee's grandparents, great-grandparents, aunts, uncles and officers of the Dallas Police Dept. where his father works.

ASK DOC GARD'NER by NEIL SPERRY

Dear Doc: How do I go about bringing our geraniums indoors over winter?

Many folks dig their geraniums, pot them, and keep them near a bright window. I think you'll find it easier, though, to take cuttings and simply start new plants. Easier still—just consider geraniums an annual flower, let front take its toll, and buy new plants come spring.

Dear Doc: I've got a poinsettia saved from last Christmas. How do I get it to flower?

Poinsettias set flower buds when the nights reach a certain length in the fall. To have them in flower for Christmas, greenhouse growers pull black shade cloths each night to give them artificially long nights, hence promoting flowering. In your house you could drape a sheet of dark cloth over the plant for 14-15 hours each night, or you could put it in a room where you wouldn't be turning the lights on. Starting about October 1 your plant will flower by Christmas.

Dear Doc: I need two of your remedies—one for pill bugs and one for nut grass. Thanks!

Pill bugs can be controlled chemically with dust or metaldehyde baits. Organic gardeners report that shallow pans of beer do a good job of trapping and drowning these pests.

For nut grass control I'll need to lay down a couple of ground rules. First, don't try any chemicals on St. Augustine lawns. St. Augustine is just too tender—give it more water and fertilizer to help it crowd out the weed. For bermudagrass, DSMA is pretty dependable as a spray control. In flower beds, epim granules will help eliminate the problem. Hoe the granules into the soil and don't use them around fleshy rooted plants such as canas, iris, daffodils and daylilies. A new chemical, Roundup, does an excellent job of controlling nutsedge, but, to date, is available only in expensive gallon-lot quantities.

Dear Doc: Please inform us as to what will control the dry rot or brown rot of sweet potatoes.

There are several rots that hit stored sweet potatoes. All are accentuated by high storage temperatures and humid conditions. Make sure you have clean, vigorous planting stock in the spring, too.

Dear Doc: Something has cut semi-circles out of the leaves of my rose bushes. What's responsible—I've seen no insects.

It's the leaf cutter bee, a small insect that uses its leaves as shingles to build a home in a pipe or crevice. You may not have seen them, but they were there long enough to snip loose a section of leaf. A general rose spray should take care of it, although it really isn't too devastating.

Collin Pecan Crop Ready for Picking

The pecan crop generally looks good in Collin County, and the tasty morsels should be ready soon. Pecans are a nutritious and pleasing food if they are healthy and not marked by spots and water soaked areas.

This means that they must be picked up regularly as they begin to fall, notes James R. Risinger, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

There are a number of diseases which attack the mature pecan that make it unsuitable for consumption. The pecan shell has a suture and it is through this suture and the pointed end that many fungi enter. Some damage can occur on the tree, so spraying is important during the growing season to prevent infection.

Infection also occurs when pecans drop from the tree and then remain on the ground for a lengthy period.

Pecans laying on the ground are exposed to moisture and are much more prone to have damaged kernels than those which are picked up soon after they drop.

Once pecans have been picked up, Risinger suggests drying them in some manner. A dryer can be constructed by building a box with a hardware screen bottom and a small light bulb placed below the screen. If possible, position a small fan so it blows across the lightbulb and up through the screen. Place pecans on the screen (not over two layers deep) and stir them every 12 hours.

To determine if they are dry, crack a few pecans and break the kernels. When they have a sharp crack, they are dry enough to place in containers. Be sure the storage area is well ventilated and not exposed to severe heat.

Proper Spacing Important in Gardens

One of the keys to a successful fall vegetable garden is proper spacing of plants.

Every gardener should sow more seeds than are really needed, but the plants should be thinned to recommended spacing once they are several inches high, says James R. Risinger, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most gardeners hate to thin seedlings but too many plants in the row can act just like weeds and compete with each other for water, light and nutrients. The problem of overcrowding often occurs when lettuce, sweet corn, carrots, beets, radishes and spinach are planted. These vegetables need to have room if they are going to develop into good quality vegetables, emphasizes the county agent.

straight carrots are to develop. If carrot seedlings are crowded, they become twisted and mis-shapen and are usually small.

As far as lettuce is concerned, amateur gardeners are reluctant to thin lettuce because the idea is that you eat the leaves anyway. Thin good quality leaf lettuce to about 6 to 10 inches apart.

Harvest the whole plant, as the best part is the center, tender, light green leaves. If not thinned, the result may be a bunch of little, bitter, outside leaves.

Many gardeners wonder why their fall sweet corn produces nubbins and not the nice big ears with good flag leaves like those sold on roadside stands. The trouble is generally overcrowding. Keep most sweet corn varieties 8 to 12 inches apart between each stalk and space the rows at least 36 inches apart.

Space radishes at least an inch apart. Overcrowding often results in mis-shapen radishes or failure to properly enlarge at all.

Pumpkins need plenty of room too, with each plant set 2 or preferably 3 feet apart. Space rows 8 or even 10 feet apart.

A few plants properly spaced will produce more than a lot of overcrowded plants, notes Risinger. Plants should have plenty of room to grow and to produce high yields of tasty vegetables.

ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, Oct. 1, 1977

Oct. 1, 1977

Involvements you have with progressive associates this year will come off well. Dealings with those who live in the past won't be as profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't overlook old obligations today. Take care of your end of the bargain without any attempt to pass it off. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pessimistic companions should be avoided today. Their creeping hanging could put you in the doldrums, too, and you'll see mud instead of stars.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's possible you could turn the smallest task into a gigantic undertaking today. Unfortunately, it's all in your head.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A hidden fear could spoil your fun today. You should forget it, because it probably won't happen anyway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When things go wrong at home today, don't try to pin all the blame on your mate. He or she may not be entirely innocent, but then neither are you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use a soft-spoken approach in trying to convince a helper to do what you want today. Your subject may not be in the mood for an ear-beating.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're making a purchase of any consequence today, be certain to get exactly what you want. Buyer's remorse can strike quickly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Any disagreement between you and your family today should be settled speedily. Otherwise a long-lasting chill could set in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you're not prone to hold grudges, you're down on someone you deal with on a regular basis. You could be the big loser there.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Review how much you're spending on nonessential things and activities. Your budget is taking a beating unnecessarily.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Goals you set are not easy to come by today. If you give your best you can attain the heights. If not, you're the big loser.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have too many self-doubts for your own good today. Being cautious is a virtue, but being negative is not in that category at all.

Acid rids linoleum of rust

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I do not know how to get rust stains off my kitchen linoleum floor. Can you help me? — IRENE.

DEAR IRENE — A booklet put out by a leading linoleum maker says to rub oxalic acid (POISON, so handle with extreme care) with a nylon pad. Next use a floor cleaner, rinse, dry and use a floor polish for linoleum. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I find many uses for those sturdy five-quart pails that ice cream comes in. After they are clean and empty such pails can be used for storing clothespins, for children's sand pails, a scrub bucket for small jobs and so on. Why spend so much on expensive window cleaners and paper towels for washing windows? One tablespoon vinegar for each quart of water used and crinkled up newspapers for wiping and drying make for beautiful streak free windows for practically nothing. Try it. — SUSANNE.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with D.J. and others who cause a person like me to take up two spaces in a parking lot. I did not pay thousands of dollars for my car to have a stupid, rude and discourteous Jane or John Blow open his or her car door so hard and wide they make a dent or chip the paint. Now you know, D.J., why some of us take up two parking spaces. Have you ever banged your door into someone else's car? I have been driving for 10 years, have been careful and courteous enough and have only done it once. The kind gentleman was going to let me go scot-free but I gave him a check for $50.

By the way, I never park in a place marked for the handicapped, regardless of how short a time I would be there or how far it makes me walk. — DUSTY.

DEAR POLLY — Wearing pantyhose several times a week can be costly. I save by always buying two matching pair at one time. When I get a snag in one leg I cut it off about the middle of the thigh. When the next pair gets a snag in one leg I do the same. And then wear both pairs together. Be sure not to cut them off too high up or they might roll. This sure saves money. — JOYCE N.

New Farm Program Offers Crop Choices

Recent changes in relative prices for wheat, feedgrains and cotton and the newly announced wheat set-aside add new elements to producers' 1978 planting decisions.

"In making cropping decisions, producers should recognize the available alternatives under the new program, market price expectations, and relative production costs for their particular situations," contend Dr. Ronald Knutson and Roland Smith, economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Under the new farm program (assuming final enactment), producers will be required to set-aside 20 percent of their wheat acreage if they are to have the advantage of the price support loan, target price and disaster payment provisions of the bill, point out the economists. The loan rate for wheat will be $2.35 per bushel in 1978. The wheat target price will be $3 per bushel if total U.S. production in 1978 is more than 1.8 billion bushels and $3.05 if production is less. This year's production is estimated at 2.03 billion bushels.

Knutson and Smith list two options for a producer within the set-aside provisions. One choice is that he can set-aside 20 percent of his 1977 acreage; then he will be guaranteed a deficiency payment on his planted acreage based on the $3 or $3.05 target price. For example, if a producer planted 500 acres of wheat in 1977 and 500 acres of cotton, he could reduce wheat plantings in 1978 to 400 acres, retain cotton at 500 acres and set-aside 100 acres.

A second option is that he can reduce his wheat planting by less than 20 percent or even increase plantings, but set aside 20 percent of his 1978 wheat acreage. Again, assuming that a producer planted 500 acres of wheat and 500 acres of cotton in 1977, he could plant 200 acres of cotton, 640 acres of wheat, and set-aside 160 acres of land in 1978. If this option is chosen, the producer is only assured of receiving a deficiency payment on 80 percent of his wheat acreage planted for harvest. Of course, the program is voluntary and a set-aside is not mandatory, but the loss of loan, target price and disaster payment provisions would result from non-compliance.

Which option should a producer choose in 1978?

"With the announced grain reserve program and the fact that the set-aside program is only expected to reduce wheat production about 10 percent, we anticipate that, with normal weather, market prices for wheat in 1978 could be at or below the loan level," note Knutson and Smith. "This may also be true for feedgrain prices much of the year. If the cotton crop materializes according to estimates, it will also likely be priced near the loan level—although more uncertainty exists in cotton than in either wheat or feedgrains."

If a producer's production patterns in 1977 were reasonably in line with relative costs of production, a 20 percent set-aside on the basis of 1977 wheat acreage likely is the best strategy, believe the economists. If, however, a producer planted more cotton than normal in 1977, he may want to increase wheat acreage in 1978 back to normal levels based on the target prices of $3 per bushel for wheat and 52 cents per pound for cotton. The advantage here is that in 1979, the producer will be eligible for 100 percent participation based upon optimal cropping patterns. Winter wheat producers will have until next spring to declare their actual set-aside intentions for 1978.

"While a USDA set-aside determination is made independently each year, current conditions indicate cropping and set-aside decisions should be based upon the assumption that here will be set-aside requests for the next several years," contend Knutson and Smith. "With target prices based on U.S. average costs of production, wheat land normally should be planted to wheat, cotton land to cotton and sorghum to sorghum even if it means less price protection in 1978. If a feedgrain set-aside is announced at the anticipated 10 percent level, the same reasoning likely will apply.

Detailed regulations for the set-aside program have not yet been made public. Therefore, producers should check whatever option they choose to be sure it is in compliance with current interpretations of the program.

The Backyard Gardner

By PATRICK DENTON
Copley News Service

In a previous column I sought to entice you into beginning a spot of gardening this fall by planting some spring-flowering bulbs. Many of you already will have scouted out what is available locally in the way of bulbs. Others will have found catalogs put out by bulb specialists more satisfying to read and select from.

This week I would like to present a guide to the more common bulb varieties, with a view to helping you select the varieties that most appeal to you.

I suppose that tulips are really the mainstay of the spring-flowering bulb garden. Tulips are hardy, reliable bloomers and come in over 4,000 varieties — quite a choice! By planting early, mid-season and late types you can have tulip bloom stretching over a considerable period of time, depending on the weather.

Among the more dramatic tulips are the Darwin hybrids. These are tall and stately, up to 30 inches, with large flowers. Darwin hybrids are hardy and weather-resistant. An example is Apeldoorn, orange red with purple-black bases.

Unusual also are the double early and double late tulips. The double lates are taller, but both flowers strongly resemble peony blooms, and for that reason are often called peony-flowered tulips.

Then there are tulips with unusual flower shapes. Lily-flowered tulips bloom late, with blossoms with long, pointed petals that arch outwards at the tips. The laced-petaled Parrots resemble the coloring of the tropical bird. The curved petals are cut at the edges and look like feathers. The black parrot is particularly exotic.

LAWNS and Gardens

The most used and best known tulips are the Darwins, late flowering with strong stems and large, deep-cupped solid-colored flowers.

There are many unusual and spectacular new tulips on the market every year, from the giant, dazzling Red Emperor to the charming dwarf tulipa tarda. It is quite worthwhile to send away for a catalog and spend an enjoyable afternoon reading about and looking at pictures of the many lovely species available. Ask your Department of Agriculture local office to recommend a reputable bulb nursery.

I cannot leave the subject of tulips without mentioning one sort I treasure for its fragrance — General de Wet. A bouquet of these blooms in the house is surely a touch of heaven. Each year I pot some of these for forcing.

One tip about bringing in cut blooms for the house — do not mix tulips and daffodils in the same container. The sap from the daffodil stems poison the tulips, and cause them to deteriorate rapidly.

Daffodils also come in a variety of shapes and colors, more so than most people realize. Now, as well as the familiar golden yellow, there are varieties tinged with orange, some with white petals, some in buff, pink and lime. Some have double flowers. But the most commonly used and known are the trumpet daffodils in which the cup, or trumpet, is prominent. The most used of these is King Alfred.

Daffodils, unfortunately, are not so hardy as tulips and in the cold-weather areas of the continent can only be grown either against a sheltered house wall, or indoors in pots.

In warmer areas, though, daffodils can be planted anywhere — in the flower border, among shrubs, along a fence. Large trumpet daffodils are ideal for naturalizing along the edge of your property.

A beautifully fragrant type of daffodil is the jonquil — small, frilly flowers with a lovely sweet scent. Together with fragrant hyacinth, they are perfect grown by the kitchen door.

Jones received the award at a meeting of the ACU Wildcat Club Tuesday. Jones played for Plano Senior High's Wildcats in 1974. That team, coached by John Clark, reached the Class AAAA quarterfinals.

Lavon Camp Sites Remain Open

BY CHARLES SCREETON
Reservoir Manager

Heavy summer use of the four camper fee areas at Lavon Lake has slowed considerably with arrival of our fall season. Because of heavy rains in some of the camper areas, disruption of vegetation, and needed maintenance in fee parks, the fee area portions in Collin and Little Ridge Parks are now closed and will remain so during the winter months.

However, the camper fee areas in Lavonia and East Fork Parks will remain open during the winter months with water and electrical hookups as usual. The daily user fee of $3 without electricity or $3.50 with electricity will be charged at Lavonia and East Fork camper areas by the gate attendants as was done during the summer months.

Maintenance repairs needed at the closed parts of Collin and Little Ridge Parks will consist of reworking eroded ditches, and slopes which will be fertilized and reseeded.

Homeruns Diminish

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last major league player to hit 50 or more home runs in one season was Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, who hit 52 in 1965.

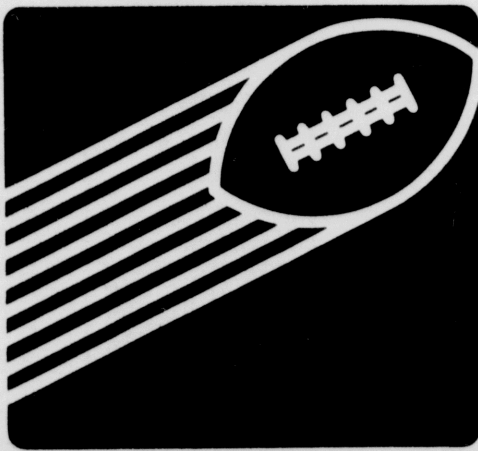

Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies, National League leader for the last three years with 36, 38 and 38, believes new ball parks in recent years have a lot to do with it.

"Aside from the fact there is better pitching now," he says, "the fences are farther away in the new stadiums and in some of them the ball just doesn't seem to carry as well."

Owls Start Plano Duo

Two graduates of Plano Senior High have assumed leading roles on the football team at Rice University. Wes Hansen, a 1975 PSHS graduate, and Walter Ford, a 1976 grad, are both playing for the Rice Owls this season in starting roles.

Hansen is handling place kicking chores for Rice and Ford has won a starting berth at defensive end.

Hansen was Plano's kicking specialist for two seasons, 1974 and 1975, and both years the Wildcats won District 13-AAAA and in 1974 advanced to the Class AAAA quarterfinals.

Hansen was a walk-on at Rice and won the place kicking job as a freshman. The 5-10, 171 lb. kicker hit 18 of 20 extra points and four of eight field goals last season.

His performance last year earned him a scholarship this season. He is 2-2 on field goals this season and 4-4 on PATs.

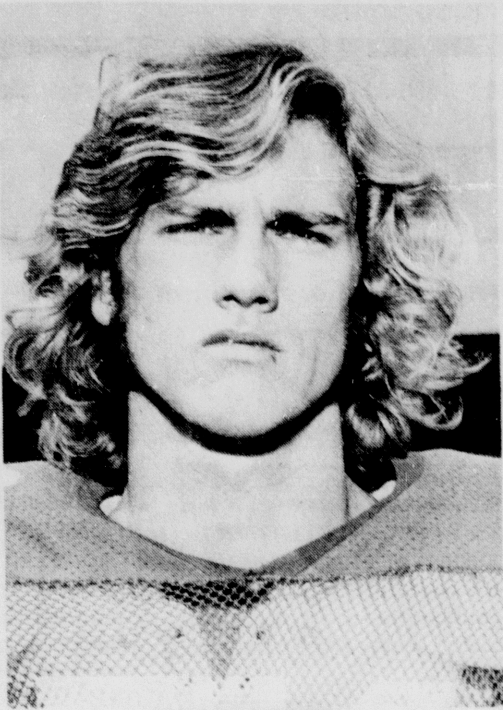

Walter Ford was one of Plano's all-time versatile athletes. He lettered three years on the PSHS football team and often played two ways as defensive end and running back.

He drew all-district honors for his defensive play and his 6-1, 190 lb. frame plus 9.8 speed made him a recruiting catch. He started out on the freshman team for the Owls before being moved up to a starting position for the Southwest Conference team this week against Texas.

Trinity Trips Warriors

Williams 10th Loses 34-16

By BILL LAROE

Thursday night, the Williams High School sophomore Warriors played host to Trinity High School's Junior Varsity. The Trinity Trojans proved to be too much for the Warriors to handle, as the Warriors dropped the game 34-16.

At the beginning of the second quarter, the Warrior punter fumbled the ball and Trinity picked it up on Williams eight-yard line. The Warriors saved a score by forcing the Trojans to fumble on the five-yard line and recovering the ball.

No more action took place in the first half as both teams could not sustain a drive and exchanged punts.

with 3:05 left in the third quarter, led 15-0.

Williams fumbled on the play after the kick off the third time in a row and Trinity took good advantage and at the end of the third quarter, the Warriors were down by 21 points.

Three seconds into the fourth quarter, Trinity again recovered a Warrior fumble and converted it to points, making the score 27-0.

Williams took the ensuing kick off, and behind the pass receiving of Sophomore Teddy Bingham, and the running of sophomore Vincent Neal, marched the ball down field for their first touchdown.

Trinity's lead was cut to 27-8.

Following the kickoff, Trinity fumbled to Williams. The Warriors took advantage of the good field position and on a two-yard run by Neal, scored their last point of the game.

The last score of the game came at 1:20 in the fourth quarter and was a three-yard pass for the Trojans, giving them a 34-16 win.

At Rangers 2-1 Loss

Alexander Miffed

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Ranger right-hander Doyle Alexander thought he pitched well enough to win Thursday, so he was a little miffed at a ninth inning play which helped the Seattle Mariners to a 2-1 victory over Texas.

Rangers second baseman Bump Wills missed a ground ball to allow one of three ninth inning singles that led to the Mariners winning run.

"Bump timed the ball instead of catching it. Outfielders do that," said Alexander. "Bump has done a good job this year, but I certainly thought I was out of the inning. It's a shame I lost because a guy didn't play."

Wills agreed he thought he should have handled the grounder off the bat of Seattle shortstop Craig Reynolds.

"I didn't see it off the bat too well," said Wills.

Reynolds' single moved Bob Stinson to second and Stinson scored on a single by Julio Cruz.

Paul Mitchell, starting pitcher for Seattle, raised his record to 3-6. Alexander is 17-11 and probably will not get another start in the three remaining games of the season.

Seattle took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Lee Stanton led off with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice by Ruppert Jones, took third on a wild pitch by Alexander and scored on Bill Stein's single.

Dave May tied it in the third inning for Texas with a leadoff homer, his seventh of the year.

Stanton suffered a dislocated left ankle with ligament tears while sliding into second base attempting to break up a double play in the eighth inning.

A&M, SMU, Texas

Big Games In SWC

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

The Texas A&M Aggies get a shot at some national attention, the SMU Mustangs get a chance to impress some paying customers in their own stadium for a change and the Texas Longhorns have an opportunity to run up some more impressive statistics.

It all happens Saturday, but most of all it is going to happen in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I do find it difficult to get my team motivated for Duke and Navy," said Michigan Wolverine coach Bo Schembechler. "But I will not have that problem Saturday."

Third-rated Michigan hosts fifth-ranked Texas A&M in what is not only the leading attraction involving a Southwest Conference team, but also the highlight game across the entire country. It will be televised throughout most of the nation.

But that clash between ground-oriented clubs will not be the only meeting of SWC and Big Ten teams Saturday.

The Ohio State Buckeyes, somewhat upset at the events involving the Oklahoma Sooners last Saturday, make their first trip ever to the Southwest Saturday night for a meeting with overmatched SMU.

Business leaders in Dallas have gone to great lengths in an attempt to jam the 72,000-seat Cotton Bowl, where the Mustangs have drawn sparse crowds in recent years. An estimated 60,000 persons will attend and if the crowd does turn out to be that big it will be the largest for an SMU home game in a dozen years.

And while those two intersectional struggles are going on the Southwest Conference will embark on its biggest intraleague schedule of the season.

Texas (2-0), which has scored 112 points and not given up any, will be at home against the lowly Rice Owls (1-2) in a 4 p.m. start. Rice surrendered 77 points last week to LSU and could be victimized just as much this time.

The injury riddled Baylor Bears (1-2) will pay a nighttime visit to the Houston Cougars (2-1), a team that starts the SWC campaign with plenty of hurts of its own, and the 11th-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks (3-0) travel to TCU (0-3) for a 4 p.m. game in which the Hogs should extend the most one-sided rivalry in conference history.

Arkansas has beaten TCU 18 times in a row. TCU also has lost its last 14 straight games.

Finally, the Texas Tech Red Raiders (2-1) will try to come back from their loss to Texas A&M last week in an intersectional contest at North Carolina.

"This is an experienced Texas A&M offensive team," said Schembechler. "All of their backs and key people are experienced. But they are most impressive defensively. Their defense has really come on."

Of major concern for the Aggies is the status of George Woodard. The 283-pound fullback was slowed by a groin muscle pull last week against Texas A&M and earlier this week he was hospitalized overnight with an inflamed appendix.

And of major concern for SMU is anything Ohio State happens to be doing at the time.

"The only thing we might confuse (Ohio State coach) Woody Hayes with," said SMU coach Ron Meyer, "is whether he should run for 600 yards or pass for 800."

In England

One Dead, One Thriving

By GREGORY JENSEN

DROITWICH, England (UPI) — On nearby hills in a littlevisited part of the country stand two extraordinary houses which illustrate opposite fates for the stately homes of England.

Chateau Impney is a light-hearted confection of sheer fantasy. It is an imitation French chateau, as incongruous as an Arab souk in its English countryside, built as a monument to love.

Witley Court is a sober, classical palace of immense size, often visited by a king, a magnificent family home until a mere 40 years ago.

Now one is dead, the other vibrantly alive.

Witley is a haunted desolation of roofless rooms and wrecked gardens. But less than 10 miles away, Chateau Impney dances the night away as a popular luxury hotel.

These two houses were built about the same time — Witley's enlargement began in 1856, Impney finished in 1875 — as perfect representatives of an age. One reflects the pomp and grandeur of Queen Victoria's imperial England, the other the caprice and self-indulgence of enormous wealth.

The wealth, in Impney's case, belonged to John Corbett. He made such a staggering fortune from salt he was known as "The Salt King," and today's hotel guests are told a romantic little legend about him.

In middle-age, it says, Corbett visited Paris and fell in love with a beautiful French governess. He married her, brought her back and built the phoney French chateau for her.

And how he built it! Corbett hired 3,000 men to create his huge park, to rear up the fairytale turrets and nearperpendicular roofs frothing with carved stone which still look so impressive.

They installed marble columns and elaborate ceilings, a living room which is a ballroom now, terraced rose gardens where tourists now stroll with a drink. Over a sweeping mockmedieval staircase Corbett's portrait, painted in 1878, looks down as if bemused by all the changes.

But there are one or two hitches to the popular Corbett legend.

A.F. Nicklin, a local historian, agrees that Corbett had almost everything. He was a famous philanthropist, a humane employer who banned child labor in his salt works, a member of parliament for 25 years, who revitalized Droitwich with new hotels and spa baths.

But Mrs. Corbett, Nicklin says, wasn't French — she was a French-Irish girl named Jean O'Hara. If Corbett built Chateau Impney to please her, it didn't work.

"After spending only a short time at Impney" she walked out, Nicklin says. There was no reconciliation. The Salt King lived on at Impney, wifeless, until his death in wealth and honor in 1901, aged 83.

Impney's cost became a local scandal, but Witley Court was costlier still. It was built on a kingly scale, and some of its grandeur still shows.

King Edward VII came here often, sweeping down its grand outdoor staircases to go shooting in the 1,100-acre park. Few come here now.

Those who do find the staircases piles of rubble, the classical columns three stories tall propped up with scaffolding. The park is plowed fields and the formal gardens rough grass.

Witley Court was famous for statues and for two immense fountains, worthy of Rome. The statues are gone and people picnic by the empty fountains, their gigantic sculptures crumbling. Its 100 "main" rooms have not a roof among them and its stately stone walls are plastered with red signs warning that "these ruins are dangerous."

Witley's downfall began with a fire in 1937 which damaged a quarter of the sprawling mansion. Its owners tried to auction it, but with war in the air nobody bought. In only 40 years — the blink of an eye in the life of a great house — neglect and willful destruction made Witley beyond redemption.

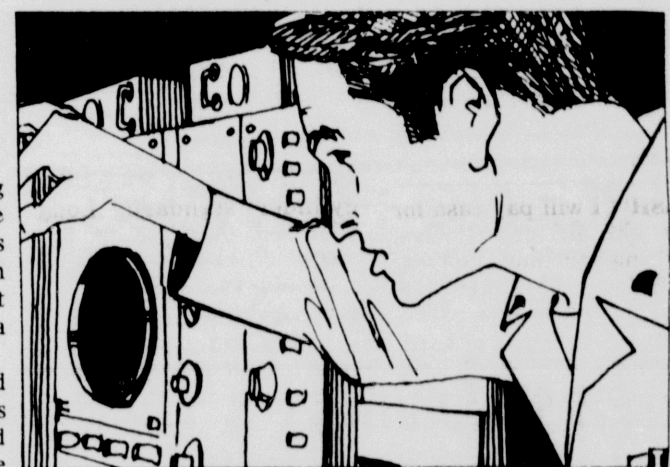

At Chateau Impney the curios and furnishings Corbett collected are gone. But commercial use has kept his house intact and alive.

Its restaurants and party rooms bulge with people from Birmingham, 15 miles north, and its 66 bedrooms are used by tour groups and individual travelers.

These visitors are John Corbett's unintended heirs, inheritors of the fake chateau the Salt King's queen didn't want. But it is they who save Chateau Impney from the sad and final fate of the wreck called Witley Court.

Brown Predicts Tightening Of Grain Warehouse Space

AUSTIN—The prospect of much of this year's grain going into storage under government loan programs will make it especially important to reserve warehouse space prior to next harvest season, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

"Experience at the onset of the milo harvest this year, when some problems were encountered in finding storage space because of the oversupply of wheat, bears this out," Brown commented. "We expect storage space to be at a premium next year."

In addition, Brown said pre-harvest consultations between the farmer and warehouse operator are advantageous to both in determining their individual needs.

THE CHURCH IN YOU

Now a combination for you! Be a regular churchgoer and you will receive:

William Neumann, Pastor, Sunday, 10:00 A.M. - 11:00 A.M.
Chapel, 1000 E. 15th St., Dallas, Texas 75206

Take time sometime to thank God for the things that did not happen this week. For instance, if you did not catch a cold, did not lose your job, the car did not break down. Take time to count your blessings. Many people spend much of their life wishing to have more. They seldom take the time to think of the many unfortunate things that could have happened but did not. Go to church this Sunday and, instead of asking God for more, thank Him for not.
